1515-1630	The battle of best practice: debating the future of wound care Moderator: Hayley Ryan Join us for an electrifying debate on the future of wound care, where innovation meets ethics and science meets patient preference. In this engaging forum, two dynamic teams will go head-to-head, each armed with sharp insights and compelling arguments. The discussion will span critical topics such as whether we should prioritise preventive measures over reactive treatments, the role and risks of technology in wound care, the justification of high-cost treatments, and the delicate balance between patient autonomy and professional medical advice. Expect a lively exchange on whether the widespread use of antibiotics is fuelling resistance, if holistic treatments deserve equal footing with conventional methods, and the ethics of regulatory approvals in stifling or safeguarding innovation. Be part of the conversation that could shape the next wave of wound care practice! For A/Prof. Michael Woodward Dr. Dianne Smith Prof. Dr. Dimitri Beekman Against Prof. Dr. Sebastian Probst A/Prof. Christina Parker Catherine Leahy
